

WHY JOIN PMS?

The Pakistan Materials Society will have a fascinating and diverse membership ranging from university students through qualified professionals in all disciplines to the still interested and involved retired community. We will have specialist interest groups full of academic and industry members. We will have events for professional development and socialising in your own field of interest and specialization. We believe that the Society will soon become a place where any person interested in Materials can come and find someone or something to interest and amaze them. The benefits of membership may include:

- Free subscription to Journal of the Pakistan Materials Society
- Free information about the activities of the Society
- An opportunity to contribute in their way to the development of Materials in the country
- Get your voice loud enough to be heard.
